

A spider from genus Trebacosa (Lycosidae)

OLIVIER VILLEPOUX

Les Pérailles, 43100 Paulhac, France

A new Lycosid spider has been found in France, in a fen of the Rhône valley. It is very closely related to Trebacosa marxi (Stone) and is, so, the second species belonging to the genus Trebacosa (described by Dondale & Redner in 1981) in the world. Morphological comparisons are made, for both male and female, with Trebacosa marxi. Then first data about phenology and ecology of this new species are exposed. Finally, we give the world distribution of the genus Trebacosa as it is known today.